This is not something I will be directly working on, but thought it might be interesting to see what other interest this generates, so thought it might be worth submitting as a new thread. Citi Brings More EMV Chip Card Payments to Canada Payment terminals by card issuer Citi are now able to accept EMV chip card payment solutions from the McLean, Virginia-based payment network. Citi's U.S. terminals that accept EMV chip cards are now in Canada. The ability to accept EMV chip cards is a big leap forward in electronic payments, said David McCollin, managing director of payment strategy at Canadian Payments. "[EMV chip card] is a requirement for Canadians and it makes for a seamless transition for consumers," McCollin said. The ability to accept EMV chip cards is a big step forward for Canadian merchants, McCollin said. "Since the first EMV-enabled Visa chip cards were issued in October 2013, more than three-quarters of Canadian consumers have migrated to EMV chip technology and now we're moving forward with chip cards as the standard," he said. Many of the largest card issuers in the United States are making their EMV chip card readers available in Canada, McCollin said. That will help Canadian consumers migrate to the EMV chip standard, he said. "All payments made by the card are safe.
